

Library offers free computer classes

Free computer classes offered by the Fort Vancouver Regional Library District at the Vancouver Community Library, 1007 E Mill Plain Boulevard, cover basic information related to e-mail, the Internet, and personal computers.

The next class, which is on personal computers, is 9:30 to 11 a.m. Saturday, May 15.

Although there is no charge, pre-registration is required. For further information, call 695-1566.

Developers to discuss eastside activity

The Columbia River Economic development Council has assembled a panel of movers, shakers and developers with a stake in east Vancouver and Clark County to provide a preview of future plans for commercial, industrial and residential development for that emerging center of activity.

The panel consists of Barbara Bushnell, director of leasing for Columbia Tech Center, Jim Edwards, vice president of Bircher Development, Mark Hinton, president, Hinton Development, Tom Shipler, president, Camas Meadows Corporate Center, and Kevin Wann, president, Pacific Lifestyle Homes.

The panel report will be given during a 11:30 a.m. Thursday, May 27, quarterly investor luncheon in Camas Meadows Golf Club. For reservations for the $25 lunch, call 694-5006. CREDC members may register on line at www.credc.org.

RSV Construction working on 2nd Boston's Gourmet Pizza

A second Boston's Gourmet Pizza is being built by RSV Construction Services on 117th Avenue in Orchards. The new full-service restaurant and sports bar will be nearly identical to the first 5,600-square-foot building on NE 164th Avenue near Regal Cascade 16 Cinemas.

Joe Loftgren, managing partner of OR-CAN, says the franchise's rapid expansion is a sign of confidence in the Vancouver area.

There are 200 Boston's Gourmet Pizzas in North America, two of which are in Spokane, and as many as four more planned for the Vancouver area.

Skills Center students awarded WAVE scholarships

Rachel Justus, Amanda Crawford and Tasha Ogden received scholarships from the Washington Award for Vocational Excellence program of the Washington State Workforce Training and Education Coordinating Board.

Justus is a Ridgefield High School senior enrolled in the Skills Center's Applied Science program. Crawford is a Hudson's Bay High School Senior enrolled in the Construction Technology Program, and Ogden is a Fort Vancouver High School senior also enrolled in the Applied Medical Sciences Program.

Three WAVE recipients are chosen from each legislative district by a selection committee comprised of representatives from business, labor, education, the Legislature and interested citizens. Selection criteria include occupational proficiency, leadership, community activities, work experience, character, attitude, attendance and other qualities.

The Washington State Legislature established the WAVE to honor students for outstanding achievement in vocational-technical education. For more information, contact the Workforce Training and Education Coordinating Board at 360-753-0892 or Skills Center Director Dennis Kampe at 360-604-1050.
