

Chkalov celebration Saturday includes rededication, dinner and dancing

Valeri Chkalov's children, Igor, Valeria and Olga, and a dozen Russian government and aviation representatives, are participating in the rededication of the Chkalov Monument at Pearson Field Saturday, June 19.

Chkalov, along with a crew of two, were the first to fly over the North Pole from Moscow to the United States, landing at Pearson Field in June 1937. Chkalov, a hero in Russia, was killed in an aircraft accident not long after the transpolar flight. He would have been 100 years old this year.

The rededication is at 3:30 p.m. At 4:30 p.m. antique aircraft will land and hot air balloons will ascend. A silent auction follows at 5:30 p.m., and dinner is at 6:30 p.m. The program that begins at 7:30 p.m. includes a live auction and is followed by line dancing to the Tom Mann country and western band.

Tickets for the dinner and auctions are $50. For further information, call 694-7026.

Kissinger premier jazz piece Saturday

Billed as a night of sacred jazz, Bravo! Vancouver presents the world premier of artistic director Michael Kissenger's Sacred Cantata, as well as Duke Ellington's A Sacred Concert at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, June 19, in St. Joseph Church, 400 S Andresen Road.

Tickets at the door are $12 and $15, or can be bought through all Safeway Tickets West outlets. For further information, call Linda Marsh, 695-6207.

Cell phones jamming 9-1-1 center by accident

Nearly one in four of the average of 370 cell phone calls to 9-1-1, at Clark Regional Emergency Services are accidental, according to spokesperson Delma McNulty, who asks that cell phone owners lock the keypads or delete 9-1-1 from auto-dial.

Another source of unintentional 9-1-1 cell phone calls are old wireless phones used by children as toys. Even without wireless service, cell phones can dial 9-1-1.

Reconfiguration of Internet computer space at Vancouver Library will limit public use

Internet computers in the Vancouver Community Library are being moved from the center of the library to provide greater access to filtered computers for patrons under 17.

There will be no public access to library computers from 6 p.m. Monday, June 21 through Thursday, June 24, during the reconfiguration.
