Scott Horenstein 2004 First Citizen

Scott Horenstein, Vancouver attorney, who "over several decades has developed a record of exceptional and passionate service in Southwest Washington," has been named Clark County's First Citizen for 2004 by the Community Foundation.

Horenstein is distinguished by the variety of activities he participates in, according to one of several nominators. Horenstein helps provide free legal services to the disadvantaged, works with the Boys and Girls Club of Southwest Washington, and supports parks and recreation and the Clark County Fair. His range of civic activities includes Identity Clark County and the Vancouver School District.

Surprised by the news yesterday, Horenstein's comment was typical: "I'm hugely surprised. Wow!"

Horenstein will be honored at a 4-to-6 p.m. reception, Thursday, June 3, in the Red Lion Hotel at the Quay. For required reservations, call Leadership Clark County, 694-2588.

Vancouver schools losing Randi Holland

Randi Holland, who has served as a member of the Vancouver School District Board since 1987, Monday announced she is resigning in order to devote more time to her family.

The veteran school board member was serving as president of the five-member board this year.

Superintendent John Erickson says the board is accepting applications for the position and expects to name a replacement in mid-May.

Applicants must be registered voters living within the school district. For further information, call 313-1230.

Six Clark County Skills students earn berths in national Vocational Industrial Club finals

Six Clark County Skills Center students, having won state-level Vocational Industrial Clubs of America awards, will travel to Kansas City, Mo., in June to compete for national championships.

Nathan Kreig, Evergreen High School senior, Christina Alicia, Heritage High School senior, and Justin Weathers, Heritage High School junior, each won first place awards in state VICA competition recently in Tacoma.

Also going on to the national championships are seniors Juliana Vanderford, Mountain View High School, Stephanie Cook, Woodland High School, and Tina Cuykendall, Hudson's Bay High School.

Although enrolled in their respective high schools, the students spend part of each school day in advanced Skills Center vocational classes.
