

Southwest Washington Medical Center taps woman oncologist

Magdolna Solti

Magdolna Solti, a medical oncologist and hematologist, has been appointed to a full-time position with the Southwest Washington Medical Center's Cancer Center.

Solti is board certified in internal medicine. Her specialty areas include management of breast cancer, from diagnosis to treatment, along with clinical trials and hematology.

Solti completed her residence in internal medicine at Huron Hospital, Cleveland Clinic Health System, in Cleveland, Ohio. She completed fellowships in hematology and medical oncology at Thomas Jefferson University, Philadelphia, Pa.

The Southwest Washington Medical Center treats cancer at every level, from prevention education, research, diagnosis, treatment, and physical and emotional recovery.

Mixed-use development to come under scrutiny at an open house this evening

An advisory committee working with the Clark County Long-Range Planning Division to help develop an ordinance dealing with mixed-use development unincorporated urban areas, is holding an open house at 6:30 p.m. this evening in the Public Safety Complex, 505 NW 179th Street, Ridgefield.

The advisory committee, representative of neighborhood organizations, developers and others interested in growth issues, is expected to help the county draft rules for mixed-use land development under the recently revised Comprehensive Growth Management Plan.

For further information about today's meeting or additional information on a proposed ordinance, call Bob Higbie, 397-2375, extension 4113, or go to the county website, www.clark.wa.gov/longrangeplan/projects/mixed-use.htm.

Universities explaining graduate programs at WSU Vancouver tonight

Representatives of six universities, including Washington State University Vancouver, are making presentations of their graduate programs at 7 p.m. tonight in the Multimedia Classroom Building, room 6, WS Vancouver.

Sponsored by the WSU Vancouver chapter of Kappa Omicron Nu honor society, presenters are from George Fox University, Texas Woman's University, Portland State University, Eastern Washington University and City University. For further information, call Jackie McReynolds, 546-9740.

Kaiser Permanente expects to end flu shot clinics Saturday

Kaiser Permanente today that, said if the demand for flu shots remains at the current level, it will end flu vaccine clinics this week.

Monday, Kaiser clinics vaccinated 20,000 people at 12 medical offices, including those in Vancouver and Longview. Tuesday, the number dropped to 9,000, according to Jan Weaver, flu vaccine coordinator for Kaiser Permanente.

Weaver says that if the demand remains at the current level, Kaiser will be out of the vaccine by Saturday.

County road atlas available for $22

The 27th edition of the Clark County Road Atlas is now available from the Public Service Center GIS Map Store, 1300 Franklin Street. The comprehensive, portable 9 by 11 3/4-inch atlas is produced by the Clark County Department of Assessment and GIS.

The atlas is produced by using the latest in Geographic Information Systems (GIS technology, according to Assessment and GIS spokesperson Bob Pool. Aerial photography and shaded relief are combined to produce a single image on a scale of one inch equaling 2,000 feet. The GIS Map Store also has a wide variety of maps and aerial photography for sale to the public.

News brief

A class in adult CPR is being taught at 6 p.m. this evening in the American Red Cross, Southwest Washington Chapter office, 3114 Main Street. For further information on the $20 session or other Red Cross health and safety classes, call 693-5821.

Wednesday headlines from at home and around the world:

Jobless rate dips in the state, sharply in Clark County--Columbian, Julia Anderson

Fruit Valley embraces community projects--Columbian, Scott Hewett

Baird, Cantwell tout sales tax deduction benefits in Clark County--Columbian, Don Jenkins

Sam Velazquez back in battle, shielded by prayer--Columbian, Dean Baker

Tom Koeninger gets wet, hungry, offers advice--Columbian

Bus service in Clark County will change, for the better or for the worse next year, depending on how voters treat a .03 percent sales tax proposal on Nov. 2--Oregonian, Bill Stewart

Poor intelligence misled troops about risk of drawn-out war--New York Times, Michael R. Gordon

Wednesday on the air

General Election Candidates Night—4 p.m. CVTV
Boston Red Sox at Yankees (live)—5 p.m. KPDX
Vancouver at Portland Winter Hawks (live)—7 p.m. KUPL
Telecommunications Commission (10/6)—7 p.m. CVTV
Vancouver Land Use Hearings (10/19)—9:30 p.m. CVTV

Town Tabloids and the weather

Judi Bailey, Rita Davidson and Kerry Peck getting really good marks. ☹️ Marvin Case putting positive spin on hard questions. ☹️ Judith Davis thinking white, as in water. ☹️ Andy Nygard asking easy questions. ☹️ Barbara Duncan making someone's day. ☹️ Wednesday, damp and cloudy, but some sunbreaks, 58. Thursday, cloudy, sunbreaks, mostly dry, 57. Friday, expect showers, 56.